

“Information leads to inspiration” (TDB)

Fatal accidents at work, accidents with permanent disability or long-term absence, which occur under your responsibility, we should not want to think about it, but sometimes need to dare to think about it.

Does your organization offer the necessary protection against this and do you direct the desired prevention policy? Do you know your role in this story?

In this respect, the employer and the hierarchical line, under which everyone who leads your organization, have specific duties, responsibilities and - when it comes down to it - also liabilities.

This is not just the day of your prevention advisor or VCA officer. This is primarily the responsibility of the employer and those who represent him within the organization.

"Information leads to inspiration"

The purpose of this “master class” is primarily to inform you about what the European directives and the Belgian legislator expect from you.

It is known: your available time is very precious and short. There are many priority tasks and targets in your basket, apart from safety, health and well-being.

But isn't human life the most precious? And what if that person falls under your supervision and responsibility?

That is why Atasc Academy developed from in-field experience and at the request of employers and prevention services this unique and relevant training that provides an immersive experience of information in regards to the implementation of a safety and prevention policy in an organization and in particular the link to the specific responsibilities of the employer and the hierarchical line. These are things that you absolutely need to know or that need to be refreshed.

This training will give you a better and more complete picture of the rights and obligations that the Welfare legislation sets. You will get to know the Codex on Well-being at work better and you will be able to manage, support and follow up the tasks and assignments of prevention services with full knowledge of the facts.

How current is your prevention policy? What about the internal safety culture?

What are the do's and don'ts for employers, directors, managers and other executives within your company with regard to safety, physical and mental health and work wellbeing?

We immerse you in this pool so that, armed with the necessary insights, know-how and awareness, you can take your responsibility more fully, with the knowledge to guarantee everyone's well-being within your organization.

Would you like to perfect yourself a little further in this matter and receive concrete tools and tips? As an employer with fewer than 20 employees, are you then automatically the prevention advisor? Then we advise you to follow the second consecutive day. With the attendance certificate of this master class, we offer you the opportunity to participate in the training "Work Welfare and Prevention Science (level 4) for employers, managers and HSE officers". You only must follow the second day there to also obtain the certificate "Work well-being and Prevention science level 4". You pay only 140 euros for the second day. This masterclass is also ideal for combining with a VCA VOL training.
