

"Leave others better than how you initially thought" (TDB)

The "Teacher and Trainer" course is intended as a train the trainer or teach the teacher program with the focus on acquisition and application of presentation and didactic skills, building a training or lesson, providing insight into practical methods and smart learn to deal with difficult participants and situations. The aim is to learn how to transfer something to others in an interesting and inspiring way.

This training provides a solid foundation to make your own course, workshop, training or education more effective, useful, enthusiastic and interactive. The training is given by an experienced trainer and teacher who will stimulate and motivate you with many tips and tricks and the provision of useful tools. He will help you evolve from your field into a successful professional trainer and trainer.

By a balanced mix of theory, exercises with video recordings, exchange of experience with the trainer and the other participants, you analyse your current approach and systematically fill a suitcase of tools that take your training style to the next level.

During the training, the different pillars of a successful and professional training are extensively discussed: the preparation, the learning process, the didactic approach and your own accents and style as a trainer or teacher.

This unique training gives you the opportunity to rise above yourself, provide substantive communication and inspire others. The skills acquired from this 'learn and do' course will contribute to the realization of the vision, values and objectives of your organization and your personal objectives and the acquisition of the necessary skills.
